TCC – Teamwork, Communication and Collaboration

Foreword

The Ethiopian Association of Anesthetists recognizes the vital importance of teamwork, communication and collaboration when providing safe and effective anesthesia care to our patients. We understand that to achieve success in these areas, continuous professional development is essential.

Through the development of this training manual, we aim to create a framework for continuous learning and improvement in teamwork, communication and collaboration for anesthetists across Ethiopia. This manual will provide practical guidance, strategies and tools that can be applied in a variety of clinical settings, and will be relevant to anesthetists at all stages of their career.

Our training manual will be based on evidence-based best practice and will be informed by the experiences and expertise of our members. It will cover topics such as effective communication, conflict resolution, team building, and leadership, as they relate to anesthesia care.

We believe that this training manual will be an important resource for anesthetists who seek to improve their teamwork, communication and collaboration skills, and will ultimately help to improve the quality and safety of anesthesia care across Ethiopia. We remain committed to supporting our members in their professional development journey and to promoting excellence in anesthesia care.

Sincerely

Siraj Ahmed

EAA president

This CPD program/manual was made possible by the generous support of the American people through the United States Agency for International Development funded Health Workforce Improvement Program (HWIP) under the terms of the Cooperative Agreement No. 72066320CA00008. The contents are the responsibility of the Ethiopian Association of Anesthetists and do not necessarily reflect the views of USAID or the United States Government.

Introduction to the manual

Communication, Collaboration and Team working training is a 4 day course designed to equip health Professionals (Anesthetists, Nurses, Midwife, Physicians) working in health teaching and service delivery institutions to fill gaps that existed among health professionals and customers and increase core competencies of health professionals in the area of Effective communication, collaboration and team working during perioperative patient care in health and education of health science students in health teaching institutions.

Communication, collaboration, and teamwork is a core and essential health professional competencies in the current health care practice that help improve patient care outcomes through fostering effective and efficient advocacy and counseling strategy

Communication is the process of exchanging information and meaning between or among individuals through a common system of symbols, signs, and behavior.

A team is a collection of two or more people who interact with each other and perceive themselves to share some common interests or to accomplish a certain activity.

Teamwork is a special ability to work together towards a common vision and/or individuals working together to accomplish more than what they could do alone. Here it is important to put one quote to elaborate more about teamwork "Talent wins games, but teamwork wins championship", Michael Jordan's quote, thus there is no I in teamwork.

Collaboration: When it comes to defining collaboration, ''for a concept so widely used in everyday language, there is a surprising lack of a clear understanding of what it is to collaborate, and of how best to support and improve collaborative working. Some definitions in the literature indicate that collaboration

- Involves multiple people interacting to achieve a common goal
- Active and ongoing partnership between professionals and institutions with diverse backgrounds and mandates who work together to provide services
- Process that involves cooperation, communication, negotiation, trust, respect, and understanding to build a synergistic alliance that maximizes the contributions of each participant
- Involves constructing both a collective action to address complex patient needs and an inter professional team relationship involving respect and trust

- Process of working together, negotiating agreement and managing conflict, and both valuing and understanding one another
- Involves working together, shared planning over time, functioning cooperatively as colleagues and equals with respect and a view to find solutions together

Thus the definitions of collaboration suggest that it is an integration of activities and knowledge that requires a partnership of shared authority and responsibility with four critical elements described by Sullivan

- Coordination (working to achieve shared goals)
- Cooperation (contributing to the team, understanding and valuing the contributions of other team members)
- Shared decision-making (relying on negotiation, communication, openness, trust, and a respectful power balance)
- Partnerships (open, respectful relationships cultivated over time in which all members work equitably together)

The importance of effective communication, teamwork, and collaboration in health care is seen in terms of patient adherence to health professional counseling, improved customer satisfaction with delivered health care service, improved health care service outcomes, and reduced morbidity, and mortality.

Evidence shows, in the current healthcare practice, institutions that foster effective communication, good team working skills, and collaboration with their customers in their day-to-day routine healthcare service achieve good patient trust and everlasting results for their community.

Effective communication in health care service delivery also has a treatment component for hypertensive, patients with heart disease and endocrine disorders through reducing stress.

The aim of this communication, team working, and Collaboration course participant manual is to provide participants with the required skill and guidance needed for and Additional information, tools, and resources to fill gaps in knowledge and skill on effective communication, team working and collaboration for health professionals working in the perioperative hospital setting.

The manual is organized into 5 module chapters to cover the most relevant basic component of communication, team working, and collaboration in perioperative health care delivery in health institutions and based on identified training needs assessment.

The module is designed to consider the specific needs of the adult learner. In keeping with this, it will comprise a range of teaching modalities to include skill sessions, scenarios, demonstrations, discussions, and interactive lectures. The course was developed by the Ethiopian Anesthetists Association (EAA) in collaboration with the Jhpiego Ethiopia health workforce improvement program.

Rationale

Health professionals must maintain good communication, successful collaboration and effective Team work, and assuming complementary roles and cooperatively working together, sharing responsibility for problem-solving and making decisions to formulate and carry out plans for patient care.

Collaboration between all health care providers increases team members' awareness of each other's' type of knowledge and skills, leading to continued improvement in decision-making. And to improve patient out come and continuously to refines its communication skills.

In the current era evidence shows that communication, collaboration and team-working among health professionals is a big gap and barrier to achieve goal of organizations,.

Effective communication, collaboration and team working is very vital to Reduce medical errors, Increase patient safety, and Improve patient mortality rates. It also leads to better staff outcomes including reduced stress improved job satisfaction that helps to achieve organizational goal. Thus it is a must to maintain good competency on it through continuous update and training.

The core competency of this manual

- Develop skills in effective communication with colleagues and patients, including cultural and linguistic competency and communication in high-stress situations
- Learn different conflict resolution strategies and how to apply them in the healthcare setting
- Understand the role of interdisciplinary collaboration in patient care and how to build and maintain effective interdisciplinary teams
- Identify the characteristics of high-performing teams and how to foster a culture of teamwork in the workplace
- Apply strategy to overcome effective communication collaboration and team working barriers
- Develop tools/protocols for effective communication, collaboration, and teamwork in a healthcare setting

2	Leadership Issues on Effective Communication	25min	Case study

	Steps to implement resolution to these communication issues:		 Questions(case) Maria, the hospital administrator, had been working at the hospital for several years and was well aware of the communication issues that plagued the staff. Despite various communication channels in place, staff members frequently felt uninformed, leading to misunderstandings and mistakes in patient care. Additionally, staff morale was low, as employees felt frustrated with the lack of clear and consistent communication. Discussion questions 1. What was the problem in this institution? 2. What measure should Maria take? 3. What are the steps/strategies Maria should follow? Instruction Time 25' Form a group Give the scenario for the participant Deliver instruction how they accomplish the task Prepare and deliver the assignment for large group Preparation 15' presentation 5'
	Leadership Issues on Team Work Solution for leadership issue during team work	25min	case study In a large hospital, a team of nurses and doctors were assigned to a critical care unit to provide round-the-clock care for critically ill patients. The team consisted of experienced and novice health care professionals, and they had different communication styles, preferences and skills. One day, a patient's condition quickly deteriorated and the team was unable to effectively communicate and coordinate their actions to provide the necessary care. That led to delays in treatment, which ultimately resulted in the patient's death. Despite having a diverse and highly skilled team, staff members were often siloes in their departments and lacked a sense of cohesion and collaboration. This was resulting in increased mistakes in patient care and decreased morale among employees and concerned the hospital leaders. Discussion questions 1. What was the problem in this case scenario? 2. What measure should hospital leader take? 3. What are the steps/strategies they should follow? Instruction Time 25' Form a group Give the scenario for the participant Deliver instruction how they accomplish the task Prepare and deliver the assignment for large group Preparation 15' presentation 5'

	Leadership Issues on Collaboration Ways and strategies to implement resolutions to leadership issues during collaboration	25min	Case study Dr. James, the charismatic and visionary chief medical officer of the hospital, was concerned by the growing number of patient complaints and the low levels of staff morale. He realized that there is problem in his hospital among staff and Dr. James was determined to turn things around and make the hospital a better place for patients and staff alike. He began by embarking on a listening tour, visiting different departments and speaking with staff members about their experiences and challenges. As he listened to their stories, Dr. James discovered that silos had developed between different departments, leading to a lack of communication and coordination. Staff members from different departments felt isolated and disconnected from each other, and many felt that their contributions were not valued or recognized.

			Discussion questions 1. What measure should Dr.James take? 3. What are the steps/strategies he should follow? Instruction Time 25' Form a group Give the scenario for the participant Deliver instruction how they accomplish the task Prepare and deliver the assignment for large group

Annex 1: Think-Pair Share Template

Name _____ Date_____

Think-Pair-Share

Read the following question or problem:

Think

On your own, write three ideas you have about this question or problem:

1._____

2._____

3._____

Pair

Discuss your ideas with a partner. Put a check by any ideas, above, that your partner also wrote down. Then, write down ideas your partner had that you did not have:

1._____

2._____

3._____

Share

Review all of your ideas and circle the one you think is most important. One of you will share this idea with the whole group. As you listen to the ideas of the whole group, write down three more ideas you liked:

1._____

3._____

Annex 2: Gallery Walk

A gallery walk is a great way to engage participants in a training session. It can be used to introduce a new topic, review material, or even to assess understanding. Here are some instructions for conducting a successful gallery walk:

1. Prepare the space: Before the gallery walk, make sure the space is set up for success. Arrange the room so that participants can easily move around and view the materials. If possible, provide tables or stands to display the materials.

2. Prepare the materials: Gather the materials that you want to use for the gallery walk. These can include posters, handouts, pictures, videos, or any other visual aids. Make sure the materials are clearly labeled and organized in a way that makes sense.

3. Introduce the activity: Explain to the participants what a gallery walk is and how it will be conducted. Let them know that they will be moving around the room to view the materials and that they should take notes or ask questions as they go.

4. Divide into groups: Divide the participants into small groups and assign each group to a specific area of the room. Make sure each group has enough time to view the materials and discuss them.

5. Allow time for discussion: After each group has had a chance to view the materials, allow time for discussion. Encourage participants to ask questions and share their thoughts and ideas.

6. Wrap up: At the end of the gallery walk, review the materials and discuss any key points or takeaways. Make sure to thank the participants for their participation and encourage them to ask any remaining questions.

By following these instructions, you can ensure that your gallery walk is a successful and engaging activity for your training session. It can be a great way to introduce a new topic, review material, or assess understanding
